COMARCH
LOYALTY MANAGEMENT
FOR AIRLINES AT
JETBLUE AIRWAYS
JetBlue Airways is an American airline founded in 1998 and headquartered in New York. The carrier has features of both a legacy and a low-cost airline. Its main base is JFK Airport in New York, where the airline possesses its own Terminal 5. JetBlue operates non-stop flights between American and Caribbean airports. The fleet consists of modern Airbus 320 and Embraer 190 airplanes comprising a total number of 194 aircraft. Every seat provides passengers with access to TV and radio channels, available via a satellite connection.

The JetBlue Airways launched the TrueBlue customer appreciation program in 2002. Passengers were granted a set amount of points for each type of trip: short, medium or long-haul. Double points were awarded for flights booked online. For every 100 points earned, a program member earned a roundtrip flight if redemption seats for a requested flight remained available. The airline revamped its loyalty scheme in 2009 and began to grant clients three points for every dollar spent towards a flight, excluding taxes and fees. Online booking is promoted with additional points and every seat on every flight is available for redemption. The amount of points required for redemption depends on the fare of the requested flight in USD. In 2010 the carrier developed a community site for its TrueBlue members. Three years later the expiration of points was removed.

The carrier was looking for an IT system to support the following functionalities:

- Revenue based point accrual – points for purchasing tickets and other onboard services, co-branded credit card usage and transactions from partners
- Activity based point expiration – points won’t expire as long as a member either flies or uses their co-branded AmEx card over a 12 month period of time
- Redemptions for any available seat - any seat that is available for regular purchase can also be purchased using TrueBlue points. ‘No blackout dates’
- Automatic retro claims with promotion reprocessing
THE SOLUTION

JetBlue Airways chose the Comarch Loyalty Management for Airlines system to power the re-launch of its loyalty program. The following modules have been implemented:

- Business Administration module - gives the loyalty program manager an endless number of accrual and redemption options
- Contact Center - allows for multiple channel communication with a loyalty program member
- Smart Analytics module - to better understand the program and improve the performance
- Member Portal - community portal to keep members involved

BENEFITS

- Scalable architecture of the system
- Advanced management of accrual rules
- Online enrollment
- Smooth management of a multi-partner environment
- Complex hosting services
- 24/7 support
- Enriched call center functionalities
- Fraud protection mechanisms
- Report generation and coordination

BUSINESS RESULTS

JetBlue has successfully re-launched a full-scope customer appreciation program, characterized by the following main features:

- Simultaneous replacement of the Loyalty, Revenue Accounting, and Internet Booking Engine
- Migration of 8 million accounts and over 70 million transactions
- Integration with external IT suppliers
- Integration with a co-branded credit card (American Express)
- Integration with more than 20 diversified accrual partners
